Daniel is a problem solver. With a background in strategic operations and legal project management, Daniel brings an innovative, solutions-focused perspective to his practice. Daniel's clients benefit from his practical, people-driven approach that enables him to provide creative, business-minded legal advice to serve his clients' needs, and protect his clients' interests. With a focus on risk management and governance, Daniel's detail-oriented nature is well suited to helping his clients navigate their local, national, or global business opportunities and challenges. Daniel is an effective and impactful communicator, employing his understanding of graphic design to present information clearly and concisely. As a member of the Stewart McKelvey practice innovation team, Daniel is working to help reinvent the practice of law to be more efficient, responsive, and cost-effective. Daniel is passionate about community building, and has supported the Firm's student recruitment efforts over the past few years.
